Decluttering needn't be a mammoth task. Here's a few easy ideas to get you started...

Entrance Hall

Your entrance hall is the first (and last) part of your home that guests will see, so make sure this area is welcoming and functional. An elegant console table not only provides space for a display to brighten up your hallway, but works as storage too. Keep a tray or basket for keys and wallets - ready to grab on your way out of the door.

Home Office

If you work from home or share a study with cramming teenagers, shelving is the key to a smart space that makes working simple and more manageable. Pen pots, filing trays and notebooks in attractive designs make organising a breeze! While a bright colour or pattern will transform a sensible desk lamp into a chic accessory.

Living Room

Practical, lifestyle-friendly furniture is essential for your living space, so ensure individual pieces work within both the colour scheme and size of your room. Keep surfaces uncluttered, but don't be afraid to display your favourite ornaments and those special family photos. Just make it a rule to keep coffee tables clear.

Dining Room

Frame this space with functional, attractive storage. If your sideboard is bursting at the seams, but you're too embarrassed to display your mismatch crockery on a dresser, the simple solution is to choose one with plenty of cabinets and drawers. That way you can showcase your best pieces, while hiding your less show-worthy items away.

Kitchen

Stand back and look at how each space might best be used. Declutter an open-shelving mess with a tidy grid of woven boxes, hang mugs from hooks, or go vertical with high-level storage and a ladder. Don't forget to reclaim your space with streamlined worktops and statement storage jars for stress-free cooking.

Bedroom

Rest easy in a bedroom designed for relaxed slumber. Swap stacks of untidy books on the bedside table for fresh flowers and keep cushions and extra blankets stowed in attractive baskets stacked at the foot of the bed. Fitted wardrobes maximise space and can include bespoke solutions for shirts, shoes, bags etc. or opt instead for a bed with built-in storage.

Bathroom

Make busy mornings easier and evening soaks more zen-like with an efficient bathroom layout. Add a set of wall hooks for towels and bathrobes, or to hold clothing and accessories while you get ready for the day. A vanity unit will give you space to store toiletries and cleaning supplies, leaving shelves free for plants, relaxing candles and those indulgent spa products.
